Course Name: WORLD TRADE ORGANIZATION (WTO) LAW AND TRADE

Instructor: Dr. Amrita Bahri

Welcome to the Course!!

The course focuses on the laws, principles, functioning and jurisprudence of International Trade Law. Students will understand the principles of multilateral and bilateral trade and engage with the practice of international trade law with the help of current jurisprudence and hypothetical dispute scenarios. The students will receive an appreciation of the purpose and functions of the WTO and be familiar with its principal rules, impact and jurisprudence. Students will learn with a unique combination of lectures, class discussions and practice exercises. The approach employed will be practical (with real life examples), critical (with practical assessments) and contemporary (with recent developments)

Aims and Objectives

The aim is to provide students with:

- An overview of international trading system
- An introduction to bilateral and regional trade negotiations and recent trends and developments
- A good working understanding of the WTO
- A sound technical understanding of the core provisions of the GATT
- An understanding of the current challenges threatening the existence of WTO
- Some practical tools to think critically about the role played by the WTO in global economic governance

Topics Covered

Lecture 1: The Origins, Architecture and Purpose of WTO

The topic provides a general background to international trade law and multilateral trading system, setting the stage for the remainder of the course. It explains the evolution, procedures, mechanics, substance and significance of WTO agreements.

Topics covered include:

- 1. Introduction to the course
- 2. Trade Liberalization versus protectionism
- 3. International trade and need for regulation
- 4. The nature, purpose and principles of the WTO/GATT
- 5. Sources of WTO Law

Lecture 2: The WTO, Current Disruptions and COVID-19

We will initiate this class with a very engaging group discussion on the relevance and importance of WTO. Following that, the lecture will discuss the existential threats that the multilateral trading system is currently facing, such as the dispute settlement deadlock, decision making, tariff wars, vague provisions, and the onset of pandemic. Let's see if we can somehow find a way to rescue multilateralism in our discussions.

Topics covered are:

- 1. Challenges and threats: an overview
- 2. The pandemic and trade
- 3. Dispute settlement deadlock
- 4. Trade wars and retreats from globalization
- 5. Importance of globalization in pandemics
- 6. Group discussion: to join or not to join?

Lecture 3: Trade Agreements and Sustainable Development

After gaining an overview of globalization and international trade laws, we will see how we can make international laws work for gender justice. In this lecture, we will first identify and discuss the barriers that women face to trade, and the reasons behind these barriers. Then, we will discuss how multilateral and bilateral trading systems can help women participate in trade and economic empowerment.

Topics covered are:

- 1. Trade and sustainable development
- 2. Trade and Environment
- 3. Trade and Disability
- 4. Trade and gender: dual relationship
- 5. Current trends, Gender responsiveness framework

Lecture 4: Group Presentations: On an allocated topic

In this lecture, each group will be allocated with a specific topic covered in the course. You will research that topic and deliver a presentation in the session on that topic.

Lecture 5: Non-discrimination Principles

Now we turn to the GATT rules on non-discrimination, which are central to the balance that the GATT strikes between disciplining protectionism on the one hand, and maintaining adequate regulatory flexibility for WTO Members on the other. How well has GATT/WTO jurisprudence under these provisions maintained that balance? We start by considering the most-favoured nation (MFN) rule in Article I, then turn to the National Treatment provisions in

Article III.

- Topics included are:
- 1. MFN, Art I GATT
- 2. NT, Art III GATT
- 3. Relevant jurisprudence
- 4. Class discussions

Lecture 6: Mock Litigation 1

In this session, you will be given a problem scenario. You will be asked to research and write your briefs during the course of this session. This will allow you to internalise the understanding of principles of non discrimination you would have learnt in the previous lectures by applying them to a practical scenario. This session will also provide you a great opportunity to practice writing briefs and receive my feedback, as the final exam will follow the same dynamic and challenge.

Lecture 7: General Exceptions

Although WTO is sometimes portrayed as only concerned with promoting free trade, it also recognizes the value of other policy goals. The exceptions in GATT Articles XX and XXI provide regulatory space for Members to protect, among other things, public morals, public health, exhaustible natural resources, and national security. The application of these exceptions has been the subject of intense legal and political debate, resulting in some of the GATT's most contested jurisprudence and its most visible legitimacy crises to date.

Topics covered include:

1. Introduction to GATT Article XX;

2. General exceptions: public morals; human, animal or plant life or health; securing compliance with laws or regulations; necessity; conservation of exhaustible natural resources

- 3. Is gender equality concern a public morality concern?
- 4. Relevant jurisprudence

Lecture 8: Mock Litigation 2

In this session, you will be allocated a problem scenario. Working in groups, you will solve the problem and present arguments to represent the side allocated to your group. Let's litigate!

Teaching Methods

Sessions will comprise live lectures with the help of illustrative slides, on-the-spot quizzes, discussions, and practice exercises. We will have constant seminar discussions where we will reflect upon the practical application of laws and concepts we discussed in the lectures. Constant feedback on performance will be provided after each exercise.

Assessment Methods

Take-home exam	70%
----------------	-----

Class Participation	30%

Marking criteria will be provided individually for each assessment activity.

Housekeeping Rules!!

- All readings, class exercises and materials will be uploaded on blackboard before every lecture
- Check notifications on blackboard every day and keep up to date with all materials posted on it
- Do all readings uploaded in the lecture folder at blackboard after every class
- Class attendance and participation is a must
- Come on time for every class, no late entries will be allowed
- Please stay on mute if you are not the one who is speaking. If you have a question or comment, raise hand using reaction feature or type it in the comment section
- Please keep your cameras on during discussions and activities at all times
